If I'm lost at sea,
Tell my mother,
my father,
my sisters,
my brothers,
my friends and my folks,
and all my past lovers that I will miss them so,
but Lord, I had to go.

Sorrows to the sea,
Were heading to nowhere but no where is somewhere to me.
Take these broken things,
Turn them to something but please don't follow me.

If I'm lost at sea,
Tell my mother,
my father,
my sisters,
my brothers,

my friends and my folks,
and all my past lovers that I will miss them so,
but Lord, I had to go.

Imagine a motion that moves like the ocean,
Your mind is the current that drifts with the notion,
That everyone, everywhere, Is taking their time but going no where.

I can't live my life on their time.
I just had to run away.

If I'm lost at sea,
Tell my mother,
my father,
my sisters,
my brothers,
my friends and my folks,
and all my past lovers that I will miss them so,
but Lord, I had to go.
