Found myself a job singing for the Lord
Tell me, mirror, is this the way it works?
Working hard for a penny at a time
Tell me, mirror, if money cannot buy anything important in this life
May God come down to

Wash away, wash away, start over
I always seem to be the last to know
Let me stay, let me stay, roll over
I know the last will be the first to go

How can I pray and live my life this way?
Tell me, mirror, who am I to judge such a wreck?
Just look at me
Tell me, mirror, was I the same way before God found me today?
Carry out your plan

Wash away, wash away, start over
I always seem to be the last to know
Let me stay, let me stay, roll over
I know the last will be the first to go

You will not regret giving up your time
Your pride, your hundred dollar bills
You will not regret following a ghost
When the pearly gates are open wide

Wash away, wash away, start over
I always seem to be the last to know
Let me stay, please let me stay, roll over
I know the last will be the first to go

Wash away, wash away
