

Mark Adam Trimpey

"Alone"

Visit "Alone" on MotoLyrics.com baby, you decided we are over, yeah you've got better places to be you executed all the final maneuvers with remarkable efficiency but i knew you when you were still uncertain, though now i find you hopelessly sure you've been afflicted by a case of self-delusion, for which there is no cure but are you feeling, are you feeling better now that you are on your own

i thought we shared one common vision but mine was to keep holding on, yours was to be alone i did my very best to make you happy, but you chose to be unhappy just the same and i could not meet your lofty expectations so you bailed when the trouble came oh, you kissed me one last time before you left me and ironically it felt so real but the bitter taste on your lips told another story it was the one of how you really feel, the one of how you really feel and tell me, are you feeling, are you feeling better now that you are on your own

i thought we shared one common vision
but mine was to keep holding on, yours was to be alone

isn't it funny, isn't it funny to see how your once fragile ego has grown
i thought we shared one common vision
but mine was to keep holding on, yours was to be alone

Visit Mark Adam Trimpey page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.