where have you been, have you been right there in front of me, right there all along what has gone wrong and why have i been so slow to realize i finally see where i belong when i turn on to you, turn on to you, turn on to you, we can make our world become anew where were you hiding, my love, only slightly out of sight, only slightly out of mind two worlds colliding my love, one that's wrong but one that's right take my days, take away my empty nights

when i'm with you i am mystified, so fulfilled and so satisfied and i think you ought to know there is something here undenied, something so surreal yet so true and tried would you mind if i turned on to you, turned on to you, turned on to you
we could make our world become anew
we could make our world become anew
