it's been so long since i held you here in my arms where you belong
i've been too afraid to say what's been on my mind for so long why's it have to be a struggle every time it comes to this when there's so much on the line love can't be hit or miss

we get so caught in the words sometimes and we disregard the way we feel but my heart is yours to steal why can't we say forever

our love needs communication, what happened to our honesty

it's so easy to see the distance growing between us lately so won't you listen to me, baby, listen to me for one night
open up your heart and mind and let me find you where you're hiding wherever you are hiding

'cause i think we're looking for that same something but we call it by different names both stories end the same
