8. Interval

This morning first,
Is after all along.

The night was just
A normal one.

And now we're
Sitting always still.

With everyone beloveds'

The space between two points
Within the boundary of time.

Is only numbers on a clock
And never ending lines

In every corner
One for each.
And face to face at last.

And now, forever any doubt
Has vanished with the past.

The space between two points,
Within the boundary of time.

Is only numbers on a clock
And never ending lines

Until the seconds start again
Our eyes meet with the sky.

Safe inside, today we are

Remember as you try.
