4. Marionette

Marionette and all of your faces
The nights as you slept
I traded you places
And twice in my dream
As I saw you talking
I picked up your strings
And I started walking

Me being you
I know how I wonder
A child's book of myths
The pages were number
And twice in my dream
We met through a mirror
Before I could scream
But my strings you held nearer
Marionette the curtain is falling
The clock strikes in vain
And somewhere is calling

I'll put you away
But where am I going
I'll meet you today
When tomorrow is showing

Something to find
And someplace to wander
Ah Marionette
Oh the spell we were under
And twice in my dream
And once every season
And three times the scheme
You add rhyme
To the reason
