My Life, like the setting sun. Falling apart before its hardly begun.
Since I saw you, holding on about two weeks since you've been gone
It's a sure shot, that's what they say. Give it to you on my next pay day
I thought I heard you, but at the time I was racing through things and changing my mind.

Staring at the rain and wondering, how's it gonna play
out this time.
Nothing outside is comforting, knowing that it's not yet my time
Only if I could have that moment back one more time

It was a close shot, one too many times, I'll pay for the damage but it wasn't my crime

I spent the whole day, just wasting time. Trying to get everything off of my mind.
But then I saw you. Just real fast. Overwhelmed with shots from our past.
Coming on strong and living for the day. When I don't have to push it away.

Staring at the rain and wondering, how's it gonna play
out this time.
Nothing outside is comforting, knowing that it's not
yet my time
Only if I could have that moment back one more time
