And your whispers, they're gone
And all I hear is La-di-di La-di-dom
When it's over, then what's become?
Fill me in, on what's gone wrong

And he came back one day
When it was raining, he wouldn't stay
Don't know why I felt his pain
And now he's closer, he can't complain
Things will come apart for you
Holding on to things you've gone through
Things will come apart for you
Holding on to things...

When I go to the place
I can't help but feel this way
Now I'm older, what can I say?
Let me go home again
