

The New Cities

"Testament To Youth In Verse"

Visit "Testament To Youth In Verse" on MotoLyrics.com

Should you go looking for a testament to youth in verse, variations on the age old curse, you blame the stations when they play you like a fool and like a fool you get played with. Baby, think twice, maybe it's not all, maybe it's not alright. Finally a decent picture of the exodus, I don't know much but other singers know less, and can we control ourselves for once? Keep our hands off each other, keep our minds on the sum of each other. So should you go looking for a testament to youth in verse, dedications to the same old curse, don't blame the stations when they play you like a fool and like a fool you get played with. Baby, think twice, maybe it's not all, maybe it's not alright. Oh my sweet witness, can't you hear the voices? They're telling the children to rock for their choices. The bells ring no, no, no, no, no, no, no, no....

Visit The New Cities page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.