Sometimes this world can be so harsh,
no answers to be known,
and we all hope the next day
is better than this one.
We forget, we forget who we belong to when faced with trials and hardships of this life we moan.
We're weighted down by burdens we try to carry on our own.
We forget, we forget who we belong to.

Christ gives hope to those
who've lost their way.
He carries us when the path is dark.
His yoke is easy and His burden is light.
He promises He'll never leave our side.

Our lives are filled with competition in this earthly home.
We search form something that won't leave us strained and all alone.
We forget, we forget who we belong to.
We listen to the voices of defeat
within our heads.
As we wake every morning and all we start to feel is dread because we forget, we forget who we belong to.

Christ gives us hope to those
who've lost their way.
He carries us when the path is dark.
His yoke is easy and His burden is light.
He promises He'll never leave our side.

He opens our eyes, He opens our eyes,
He opens our eyes to see.
(Repeat)

Christ gives hope to those
who've lost their way.
He carries us when the path is dark.
His yoke is easy and His burden is light.

He promises He'll never leave our side.
