I had promised myself I would do anything I could not to disappoint you.
And all things considered I failed everything.
Your attentive words wasted...
How could I have been so stupid
and let myself drift away?

I'm such an idiot..
Why did I act just as I pleased?

Regardless of every single word you said to me...
I'm sorry, please forgive me.
I'd never thought I'd grieve you so.

I guess it's much to late
To rectify my past mistakes
Now's the damage done,
And still grief remains
despite of all my good intentions...
