"Got Yourself To Blame"

How come the truth is startin' to hurt you
When you're always seem to think that way
It's not to say I don't believe you it's just always been
The same
When people talk behind your back
I'm always there to have your say

But sometimes I think you've got yourself to blame

I've often wondered what's behind those eyes

And what's really in your heart
It all can be such a mystery at times it tears me apart

When people try to put you down
I'll try and lift you up again

I always thought you'd live in hollywood
It's not to say that you never will
So stop playin' all your silly games and takin' everyone
For a fool
