I remember you and me
But that's ancient history
Way back when life was green and ripe for dreaming
I guess the life I have would only make you laugh
I wonder what would make us laugh together
I don't need to take a trip down Cheri drive
Cause no matter where I go you're still alive
And i'll always remember
I can always remember always remember
I'll always remember the smell of electric trains

Everything that i've become
Is tied up in the sum
Of failed attempts and forgotten sweet successes
But i'd give it all away
To have just one more day
Of thinking you would be around forever
I know what it's like for a world to end
When I find myself going down that track again
I can always remember always remember
I can always remember always remember
I'll always remember the smell of electric trains

I can always remember always remember
I can always remember always remember
I'll always remember the smell of electric trains
