On the road
This endless road
Everything's under control
Passin by

This blue sky
Makes you wish you could fly
It's all so beautiful till you feel something's gotta go down

Right before your eyes the truth will turn to lies
Then you will realize that all this time you've been fakin
All you used to hide will look you in the eye
Tryin to tell you what it's like
To sit and watch as your castle burns to the ground

You try to look away find something to say Nothing seems right

You lose all the hate
Then you blame it on fate
Then you realize its just the price to pay

Right before your eyes the truth will turn to lies
Then you will realize that all this time you've been fakin
All you used to hide will look you in the eye
Tryin to tell you what it's like
To sit and watch as your castle burns to the ground

Just like the iron bird
In the iron cage
I wonder
Maybe
I could've flown away
I should have found a way well I guess its too late anyway

Right before my eyes the truth it turned to lies
Then I realized that all this time I've been fakin

All I used to hide looked me in the eye

I can tell you what its like
To sit and watch as your castle burns to the ground
