Below the clouds slipping past my wings
There was a fire that burned
And though the glow was a tiny thing
I felt my heart had turned

I could fly, so I flew everywhere
And that was freedom to me
But in your light, I found love down there
And that's what sets me free

'Cause when you glow, you take the emptiness away
And in your soft light I finally discover
A lady who can move me like no other love
And you lead me, just like a moth, to flame

For all of high-flight's serenity
The solitude gets old
And though it's clear for all eternity
The air is thin and cold

But when you glow, you take the emptiness away
And in your soft light I find my sweet lover
The lady who can move me like no other love
And you lead me, just like a moth, to flame

(instrumental)

'Cause when you glow, you take the emptiness away
And in your soft light I find my sweet lover
The lady who can move me like no other love
And you lead me, just like a moth, to flame

'Cause when you glow, you take the emptiness away
And in your soft light I find my sweet lover
A rose that smells as sweet by any other name
And you lead me, just like a moth, to flame
