this night I kneel beside thee you will breathe me in and set me free out from your lips my soul will rise and on the wings of night we will fly faraway, forever more as daylights embers pale and fade and fall into midnights shade I will sleep, sleep sweet sleep
golden halo, carry me in your warm glow
for all eternity
faraway, forever more
the circles of light spiral around me lifting me up, turning slowly the pieces of night will never again be leaving me lonely tonight I lie with death my bride and with her kiss my pain has died with night my bed and death my sleep with you my stone and I my wreath faraway, forever more
