If I could just be anywhere else, you know
I would be anywhere else but here
If I could be anyone else, right now
I would be anyone else but me

With you, I just can't lie,
You always seem to get right back inside
I just wanna go back home
But now it's gone, you trapped here all along

I tell myself this can't be happening again

It would be careless of me to care about you
Since you don't care about me at all
Got me thinking how much I've weakened
You got me thinking it's all my fault
And in the end, it'd be careless to love you again

Staring nothing into the face of fear,
Hard to look away when it's right in the mirror
How can you ever trust a liar,
When you wake up in bed and the liar is beside you

I told myself this won't be happening again

It would be careless of me to care about you
Since you don't care about me at all
Got me thinking how much I've weakened
You got me thinking it's all my fault
You can't blame me, I can't blame you
Between love and hate we're gonna have to choose
And in the end, it'd be careless to love you again

(Solo)

No excuses, I must do this, no excuses

It would be careless of me to care about you
Since you don't care about me at all
Got me thinking how much I've weakened
You got me thinking it's all my fault
You can't blame me, I can't blame you

Between love and hate we're gonna have to choose
And in the end, it'd be careless to love you again

It'd be careless to love you again,
It'd be careless to love you again, In the end
