Somehow I always end up here
But this time it just doesn't feel the same
I'm not sure I'm alive in me
How come I no more feel the pain?
It's like something's wrong with me
It must be driving me insane

Why often this life is so twisted?
Where is the truth when all looks fake?
How did I get here in the first place?
Its hurts to say that I lost faith

Is this a dream or I just woke up
Tell me which is real and which is not
Well I can tell I've had enough
I should have found my way out
With each tick my clock bites time away
Am I lost am I dead or am I here to stay?

Why often this life is so twisted?
Where is the truth when all looks fake?
How did I get here in the first place?
I hate to take it as my fate

I feel drained of all my senses
It seems I can't find whom to blame
Like some sort of strange intoxication
Is blurring my own conscience
Blocking away any self-conviction
And erasing all the shame

Why often this life is so twisted?
Where is the truth when all looks fake?
Now amidst the mist that I resisted
I failed to see that all will fade

Why often this life is so twisted?
Where is the truth when all looks fake?
How did I get here in the first place?
I failed to see that all will fade

Where is the truth when all looks fake?

I failed to see that all will fade
