The sound of your voice always comforts me
And you're all the confidence I need
But I need you to listen
'Cause I promise, I promise I'm worth it
The sound of the music is much too loud
No one will hear you scream
I've planned all this out
You're worth each and every beat my heart will allow

Wait for the night when you'll take off
Everything that confines you all of those nights
This clothing was just the wall between us
Scream 'til the floor above
Wishes they were here along with us
To see the motives
'Cause every door you close is still open for business

The sound of your footsteps come closer to me
I wish you could see your face tonight
Such a beautiful sight
There's not a price I won't pay to keep you in my life
My luck, you're just a short drive from here
And you're already on the way
But too far from me
And I can't wait, I can't wait for you to see

Our clothes have seen
More floors than hardwoods
But there might be more to this
Than we have understood
Just maybe
