(they always know) x4

She left that town , because nobody there really cared whether or not she kept around,
all they care about is which people slept around, they pay no mind of who really held it down, its like high school for grownups, its no wonder everyone you know is so nuts, ex boyfriendships with benifits, whisky binges and stimulated sedatives, sky high on the floor of your closet, thinking about life and how it tastes like garbage, its time to get gone away from this town scene, still wants to blame her surroundings, gotta grudge and a pocket of neurotic love, played a game but forgot what the object was, wheres the book that the answers are sketched , in life lessons all types of questions, sick of being mislead and lied to they all want to get inside you ,
they get inside you ,
its enough right, to make you want to just die, cry yourself to sleep on that bus ride.
