

Hey Rosetta!

"A Thousand Suns"

Everyone around wants to give you their thanks
Everyone around wants to give you their hand
We want to thank you so much
We want to thank you so much
May every breath you breathe be built on sacred things

I don't wish for this alone

These are twisted times when trust and truth collide
And when a stranger's love could make your heart explode

I want to give it all back
If I could give it all back
I'd send a thousand suns to warm your worthy lungs

I don't wish for this alone

No

I don't wish for this alone

Everyone around wants to give you their hands
Everyone around puts their hands on your back
And they say, "We want to thank you so much
We want to thank you so much"
'Cause all you did for them you also did for us

What you've done is not yours alone
What you've done echoes on and on
On and on
And on
