Why do you misunderstand me
Oh, I keep silence
I've got plenty to say
Where I can find the words again

Oh, why do you think I don't need you
I'm maybe blind, but hey
I can still read you
Let's turn the page we're on

And not close the book

You think this is the perfect time to end this
But I know there's still change for us to meant this
Open your eyes to who I really am
And see there's still another side of me

Try to see the good that's in me
'Cause I know I'm just not ready
To burn a house down, down to ground

And I feel we're on to so much more
If only you'd explore the road I see ahead

Do you think this is the perfect time to end this
But I know there's still a change for us to meant this
Open your eyes to who I really am
And see there's still another side of me

Open your eyes to who I really am
And see a perfect opportunity
To meet the man that I can be
I show you another side of me
