Its getting harder each day. You're not smiling too often
With a weight on your chest and a nail in the coffin
You try to express that the best is lost and you're looking for something better
While traces of light fade out of sight
From the crack in your boat and the red blue sky
You think home and wonder as you choke and go under
Would you throw me a life jacket please?

Don't run away without me
Don't leave it all behind
With an effortless smile, stay for a while and tell me everything else will be fine
Hoping that you're gonna save my life

Just don't let me drown
Save me before you go

To hate myself around you is to hate the things about you
I don't understand what you were thinking or How you thought that this was fine
Now I'm breathing alone but I'm breathing alright
I'm gonna have to find my way home tonight without you
Without you, tonight
Counting on you still to save my life
Can you save it?
Can you save it or...

Will you let me drown, my love?
Would you let me drown, mylove?
Come and rescue me, my love.
Cause I'm begging you, my love.
Don't let me drown my love.
Would you let me drown, my love?
Come and rescue me, my love
cause I'm fading fast, my love

I might not make it out this time

I might not make it out this time alive
But you know what, my love?
This time's for me, my love.
This time's for me, my love
My love

Just don't let me drown
Save me before you go

Don't let me drown, my love.
Would you let me drown my love?
Come and resucue me my love
