I saw your light tonight
Slipping off to see the world
Allowed myself this time
Gripping on to another's life

You stray the streets just fine
Showing off what you've become
Let me taste your crime
Giving off what you never had

So dry, so dry, so dry

So please be sure
To make a choice before you break it off
I would hate myself if I'm the one you lose
So please be sure
To make it up before you break it off
I would bleed myself to make it through to you

I lost the light tonight
Evading lies to conceal the truth
The door is open wide
Stepping into another maze

So dry, so dry, so dry

So please be sure
To make a choice before you break it off
I would hate myself if I'm the one you lose
So please be sure
To make it up before you break it off
I would bleed myself to make it through to you

Remember the days we praised and cared
I know they're still in me
And you

So please be sure
To make it up before you break it off
I would bleed myself to make it through to you...

So please be sure
To make a choice before you break it off
I would hate myself if I'm the one you lose
So please be sure
To make it up before you break it off
I would bleed myself to make it through to you
