I must get away from this place
I've thought about running away
But anywhere I could go
Would not get you off of my mind

I can't stand the clutter, I can't stand the space Everything is all wrong, everything out of place with you
With you
With you gone away

Everything's a little bit grey to me
You stole the color from me
And I'm waiting and I'm wondering
How to get it all back

Draw the shades over me
Sweep the colorblind through my sight
Leave me lost in between
All the black and white

Take the paint from my pallet and leave me with nothing to work with Take the heart from my chest and leave me with nothing to feel.

Everything's a little bit grey to me

You stole the color from me
And I'm waiting and I'm wondering
How to get it all back

I'm a little confused,
I'm a little bit bruised
I'm a little betrayed
You leave me grey

I'm a little confused,
I'm a little bit bruised
I'm a little betrayed
You leave me

Grey
To me
You stole the color from me
And I'm waiting and I'm wondering

Everything's a little bit grey
