I know what I've been through is nothing compared to her
I know what I've been through nothing is compared to her at all
And I know she's crying inside
And I know she needs a life again
So come give her your love
And I know she needs a life
And I know she needs a love again
So come give her your love
I know what I've been through is something compared to her
Even though she's crying outside her house she'll call me over
And I know she's crying inside
And I know she needs a life again
So come give her, your love
And I know she's crying inside
And I know she needs a life again
So come give her your love
People are calling her on the phone

Saying that things aren't gonna work out
People are calling her on the phone
Saying that things aren't gonna work out
She gave them all they wanted
She gave them all they played
She gave them all they wanted
They just didn't wanna share
Gave them, gave them, gave them
And I know she's crying inside
And I know she needs a life again
So come give her your love
And I know she's crying inside
And I know she needs a life again
So come give her your love
