You take the East
I'll take the West
If we end up in the middle then we know
You start sinking, better grab your oars and row

Can't draw a map with honey (?)
Not a lesson that's just good advice
On explaining how it happened twice, it happened
thrice.

If you're talking you better be walking
And please take the path that you know
You start thinking
Making up the lines as you go

You take the East
And I'll take the West
If we end up in the middle then we know
You start sinking, better grab your oars and row

Can't draw a map with honey (?)
Not a lesson that's just good advice
On explaining how it happened twice, it happened
thrice.

If you're talking you better be walking
And please take the path that you know
You start thinking
Making up the lines as you go

You take the East
And I'll take the West
If we end up in the middle then we know
You start sinking, better grab an oar and row.
