Times may have changed
But there's no change around me
I fail to see
What it's cracked up to be

I was so pure
Or perhaps immature
I asked time for the cure
But there's no antidote for living in the past

There is no antidote for living in the past

Just as predicted. Just as predicted
I'm tied, gagged and restricted
Where's the key to this lock

And could you show me the exit door

The future won't please me
Unless it brings me the past again
I should fight this feeling
But there's no antidote for living in the past

There is no antidote for living in the past

Just as predicted. Just as predicted
I'm tied, gagged and restricted
Where's the key to this lock
And could you show me the exit door

Just as predicted. Just as predicted
Just as predicted. Just as predicted
