A Native American grandfather found his grandson crying after school and discovered from the sobbing child that a playground bully had been cruel

I wish that I could hurt him said the child and when I get big that's what I'll do that would make me sad said the grandfather then I'll know the dark wolf is taking you

(chorus)

There are two wolves
There are two wolves
and within each heart these two wolves fight one is hatred
rage and darkness
and the other wolf is love and light the old man put his arms around the child said the thing you want is called revenge but when you try to hurt the one who's hurt you that's the moment you become like them the old man said i know what you are feeling being human i have felt it too the child looked into the ancient eyes then said grandfather tell me what to do

(chorus)

There are two wolves
there are two wolves
and within my heart these two wolves fight

The Old Man said child do not fear this battle though each Wolf will make the other bleed it is in your power to choose the victor the Wolf that wins will be the one you feed

(chorus)

There are two wolves
there are two wolves
and within each heart these two wolves fight

one is hatred rage and darkness
