She let her hair fall down beside him
As the tears fell on her feet
She had given more than who she was, to the world

Will you hold her up, or let her fall
Or stand strong without waivering
With just a word, I will lift you up
A word of love can change anything

Cause I take away, please take away my pain
Rap
And I need this change, it wont ever be the same
Rap

He looked her in the eye with passion
When he spoke the word that said it all
No matter what you've done, I'll love you
And I'll love you through it all

I hold you up when it's tearing you down
Stand strong without waivering
With just a word I will lift you up
A word of love will change anything

And I'll take away, I will take away your pain
And you need this change, it won't ever be the same
