He sits in the hallway reading the letter she left him last night

Dear friend, I will miss you.

But it's been way too long and I've been too polite

So this is over

Over between what you've asked me to be

I'm finally sober

And nothing can change now I'm ready to breathe

Time to Fly

Mark this one down in the pages of life

Say goodbye

Further and further away from the night

Maybe I'll see you again

Give me a few years my friend

Mother has just slipped away

Father still don't understand

Sister has packed all her things cause father still blames her for crumbling plans

Now this is over

Over between what you've wanted to be

Nothing can change now I'm ready to breathe
