The priest has spoken
This world is crashing down Burning slowly
we watch everything die This nightmare is real and it never ends
we have turned our back to everything we just rely on our selves

Im looking in the mirror Of self consciousness i look my self in the eyes crying for hope

Our homes are burning begging for any storm to wash away all signes of lives we have lived

come find our mistakes come be the storm that takes away every last mark of our existence when we got nothing to lose and everything is gone i turn my eyes up to my father who
