Oh we sail for days to find this view before us
There lies, there lies the land an inch or two below us
Take a look around
See the flags are raised again
And rising from the earth
The theater beckons us along

Way beneath the swell they laugh at our misfortune
All that holds our wealth lies washed up in Dalston
Take a look around
See the flags are raised again
And rising from the earth
The theater beckons us along

We fought our way through broken years
To conquer
And here we stand upon your land
Take a look around
See the flags are raised again
And rising from the earth
The theater beckons us along

Wave across the rolls at red and white united
May we return another day to find this
Take a look around
See the flags are raised again
And rising from the earth
The theater beckons us along

Whoa we're losing you
Drink to forget what is right
Whoa saluting you
Drink just to sleep through the night
Whoa we're losing you
And I'll drink to forget what is right
Whoa saluting you
Well we'll drink just to sleep through the night
