We march as one in a scattered line,
A world of doubt and some shattered minds.
I know there'll be that moment we find our way.

Right now I'm facing a changing time.
The air is thick, but illusions find their way
Inside, holding us back from the truth.

And I wanna believe
There's a change on the way and a voice in the wind.
And I, I wanna see,
When I look to the sky, the phoenix rise.

Then there's hope.

If I could I would fix it all.
I'm just a man with a simple song, a band of one,
But words can be so strong.

A revolution is taking place.
A peaceful army could wash away and drown
The hurt that causes so much pain.

And I wanna believe
There's a change on the way and a voice in the wind.
And I, I wanna see,
When I look to the sky, the phoenix rise.

Then there's hope.
Then there's hope.

I wanna believe
There's a change on the way and a voice in the wind.
And I, I wanna see,
When I look to the sky, the phoenix rising.

Oh then there's hope.
Then there's hope.
