"At Your Door"

I don't know why
I knocked at your door
but i can't wait anymore

it's like we're all frozen now just like ice in a glass i didn't come here for answers i just needed a laugh

when you look deep inside yourself well tell me what do you see confusion of time again (?)
or someplace frozen with me you know love never turns out the way we all plan

but the door is still open so give me your hand
give me your hand

time is stretching on and it keeps on repeating as the beat goes on our dreams have all vanished now we really thought we could win

so come on in
and give me your hand
