Hold on to your insecurities
I need them and they need me
Hold on to that pain in your chest
You're most alive when you're nearest death
Hold on to what make you cold
Wear it like a badge of pride wherever you go
Hold on to your hopelessness
At your worst is when your at your best
Hold on to your grief and then swallow it whole
Let it sit inside your belly and then turn to gold
Try to not unbend this unruly curve
'Cause we are the one to fall way out of love

Hold on to your misery
I need it and it needs me
Some people spend their lives trying to be free
Gotta hold on to your misery

Hold on to your neurosis
I need them and they need me
Hold on to your desperation
The pleasure principle at it's very foundation
What more am I owed but a certain death
It seems there is nothing more and there's nothing left
Things that I deserve and things I never should
A little cynicism will do you good

Hold on to your misery
I need it and it needs me
Some people spend their lives trying to be free
Gotta hold on to your misery

Hold on to your insecurities
Hold on to your neurosis
Hold on like you know you should
A little cynicism will do you good

Hold on to your misery
I need it and it needs me
Some people spend their lives trying to be free
Gotta hold on to my misery

Hold on to your misery
I need it and it needs me
Some people spend their lives trying to be free
Gotta hold on to my misery
Gotta hold on to my misery
