"Places Of My Life"

As I look back on my life
Like a window on a train
Through the towns and cities
Where I won't be going back
Going back again
I remember all the places
And all of the spaces of my life

As I think of what really mattered
What worked and what was tattered
I mostly recall
Having you right by my side

On this ride
I remember all the faces
And all of the traces of my life

So I sit here in remembrance
Of the way it used to be
I wonder at the end of the line
Will there be another train
Another train for me
But I'll always remember all the places
And faces of my life

The places and faces of my life
