Until you ask yourself
Why you never felt this way before, You're trying hard to wait
When you know its so long,
So much more

Because you're looking for something everyone finds
and all that keeps going 'round your mind is things still aren't right but right now they can't be wrong.

And so you slowly pull back
your heart still in tact
excuses make up for things that you lack
Surrounded by lies 'till one day your on your own.

And so you win, so you run, but you cannot hide
You try to say what your voice denies.
Along the way mistakes that you've made,
you'll have to escape
the troubles you may face.

And so you run but you cannot hide
You try to say what your voice denies.
Next time your kind, your left to decide which way do you ride
the answers in the gospel.

How can you fight the fear when it breaks you down and leaves you cold.
You could be far from here its the only place you can call home.

Because you're looking for something everyone finds
and all that keeps going 'round your mind
is things still aren't right but right now they can't be wrong.

And so you slowly pull back
your heart still in tact
excuses make up for things that you lack
Surrounded by lies 'till one day your on your own.

And so you win, so you run, but you cannot hide
You try to say what your voice denies.
Along the way mistakes that you've made,
you'll have to escape
the troubles you may face.

And so you run but you cannot hide
You try to say what your voice denies.
Next time your kind, your left to decide
which way do you ride
the answers in the gospel.
