She's been hurt and it's been too long
I don't know why but I broke her heart
I've heard her cries from her love songs
But I pretend I don't hear her crying
She's been hurt and it's all my fault
I took advantage of my advantage over her
And I regret each day we met that summer of her discontent
Everywhere she is there
And everywhere there is she
I did her wrong and I don't know why
But I'll do my best to stop her crying
I don't know how but I'll keep trying to apologize to her
And I recall each time I fall
From her grace and crawl right back to her
