when i fell from your good grace, it was all a big mistake i don't do well on the phone, i need to get you all alone 22 years is not enough to show you proof of my good stuff i take my wings off at the door and pick my bones up off the floor so we've walked
so many miles
in worn out shoes
and i will not lie,
'cause i got the blues
and i wish i knew
now i'm swimming in the background drifting in the lost and found born into a sunday,
maybe i'll be saved someday can't be late for your fate 'cause it just won't wait you grow up and they say that you can't escape everyday is your own and it's all you've got just a wish and a prayer and another shot so we've walked
and i will not lie,
'cause i got the blues
and if i had a crystall ball, baby we all would have one too and then we'd all know what to do, and maybe we all would tell the truth 22 years and now i'm stuck, so goodbye and so good luck i see the future in a cup sit with me and drink it up now i'm swimming in the background
born into a sunday,

if you can't find your way then the way finds you everyday you're defined by the things you do everyday that you wake you're reborn brand new so get up find your feet and walk in new shoes again walk in new shoes again
