"Rumor"

Sitting up at four AM, thoughts are flowing heavy, I'm thinking of my friends And the life I've come to make, the city's and the weather's cold and your two place So fix me another cup, I've got some words to say so baby just shut up And take this in, everything I'm saying so darling just listen
everything?
Drown us now with what we have
We're a melody for free with nothing planned
Growing up and getting burned
There's an error in our stitching
We're a rumor that no one's heard Another night that we roll in, later than we'd like to and everyone's sleeping They don't seem to have a clue, on everything that we have seen past suburban youth So we'll just let the miles roll, we will live the stories of living on the road And live the chance of bound success everything I would have baby you settle for less Show me (show me), that we (that we), that we lived up to everything
Drown us now with what we have
We're a melody for free with nothing planned
Growing up and getting burned
There's an error in our stitching
We're a rumor that no one's heard
If there's one thing that I have learned, it's that you work for what you earn It's nothing less than what you deserve, it's nothing less than what your worth
If there's one thing that I have learned, it's that you
work for what you earn
It's nothing less than what you deserve, it's nothing
less than what your worth
everything?
Drown us now with what we have

We're a melody for free with nothing planned
Growing up and getting burned
There's an error in our stitching
We're a rumor that no one's heard
