when i had it all
i had nothin' at all to lose broken were the soles of my shoes and all my time was spent with you

i was always playing the fool laughing for hours drinking whiskey and sneaking in to public pools

where did it go?
when paying the rent was a miracle we didn't know how good we had it then

i gave everything away money didn't mean a damn thing to me and i always had a place that i could stay and we had it all with a small room to ourselves you were writing lyrics on the wall while i read all the books upon your shelves

where did it go?

and you used to play my favorite song loud on the old car stereo playing the very same song that you recorded all night long
all alone, in the studio singing
"i used to have, i used to have it all"

i had nothin' at all to lose
broken were the soles of my shoes

when i had it all

where did it go?

long
