There's nothing you can do, now she is gone
You keep thinking about all the things you did wrong
When she gave you all she had and you gave her nothing in return
Now the candles are lit so it's time for them to burn
You had every opportunity to prove she meant the world
But went back on your word like she was just another girl
You didn't think much of it cuz you said you were sorry
But this is how it goes is just another love story

Can't forget her, can't forget her smile
She's the sun in the rain, she's the truth in a lie
And no matter what you do
You know she's never coming home
Because the pain is so unbearable she rather be alone
You took her for granted
And you didn't even know it
But now that she's gone everyday begins to show it And nothing makes a difference cuz nothings gonna change it
Her mind is made up and that's the way it's gonna stay Everything's wrong and nothing seems right
But what about those other girls that you were with all night?
She forgave you each time cuz she had a bit of faith
But that faith ran out slowly
Each and every day

With more broken promises and more heart breaks
I mean, how much hurt do you think this girl can take?
She must mean nothing if you do what you do
So why do you do it if you know that's not true?

Pause. Stop. Rewind.
Lets do a re-take
Now all you wanna do is reverse your mistakes
You think about her smile, you think about her eyes
You think about the truth caught up with all the lies
You swore more than twice and she trusted your word
But each and every time it's nothing she hasn't heard

She never knew the truth, but now she's reassured That she's better off without you though that's not what she preferred

No there's nothing you can do, now she is gone
You keep thinking about all the things you did wrong
When she gave you all she had and you gave her
nothing in return
Now the candles are lit so it's time for them to burn
You had every opportunity to prove she meant the
But went back on your word like she was just another
girl
You didn't think much of it cuz you said you were sorry
But this is how it goes it's just another love story

It's just another love story (x3)
