Maybe if I was a little bit taller
Could you love me then? (ooh)
Maybe if I made you feel a bit smaller
You'd choose me over him (choose me over him)

I see you walk through love blind
Refuse to open your mind
Don't you know when your heart's been misplaced
Meanwhile I'm patient with time
But still you struck right on by
I refuse to settle for second place

So tell me why love him
When I'm the one who's focused
I'm the one who's always by your side
Tell me why you need him
When he treats you like nothing
Don't you know he'll never do you right

Girl always on standby
Girl always on standby

Well maybe if I, maybe if I'd lost some weight
Or maybe you just don't have to look at my face
It doesn't matter now
For every day you stay I drift away
I won't be a fool while you just let,

Let him knock you down

Baby girl I have seen restraints
Why you're off chasing for him
The good guy stays to himself in last place
This whole damn thing's so cliché
But my heart forces me to stay
When I know we'll never be more than friends

So tell me why love him
When I'm the one who's focused
I'm the one who's always by your side
Tell me why you need him
When he treats you like nothing

Don't you know he'll never do you right

And I just don't see how you can take any more
He is just a dumb boy who won't change
Man if you leads to the core(?)
Thought he was nothing more than one thing
Than one thing

You're always on standby
You're always on standby
Always on standby
You're always on standby
Oh girl, oh my, yeah
