Boy, look at the letter A

Cover your left eye, cover your right eye

And will you please explain

What are you seeing again

When the letters grow small

Boy, look at the room

Cover your right eye, look at my hand

And will you say to me

How many fingers you see

With one eye open

Boy, your eyes are much bigger now

Bigger than your stomach, open them once again

And will you please say to me

How many fingers you see

With one eye open
