One fine day someone came and
took your life away.
That's the day you gave
your heart to me.
It was a long operation,
filled with complications,
now we're together, just like lovers
we are one.

I have your heart, it beats inside
it's only three inches wide.
I have your heart, I have your heart
I have your heart.

We're sewn together just you and me
so let's begin oh finally,
I'll take you out for walks
we'll always be together.
We're sewn together oh through and through so now I'm living my life for two,
I feel the pressure to be good enough
for you.

I have your heart, it beats inside
it's only three inches wide.
I have your heart, I have your heart
I have your heart.

Now I'm becoming you
or are you becoming me,
every time I talk to the boy that I like
you beat so sweetly.
But I swear just yesterday
as I was making my way
down an escalator,
a pretty girl turned my head.

I have your heart, it beats inside
it's only three inches wide.
I have your heart, I have your heart
I have your heart.

I didn't know your name,
you were a different color,
but now that you're inside,
it doesn't matter.
The guilt, the shame, the scars, the pain,
you're only dead cuz I'm alive...
...or is it the other way around?
I can't decide.

I have your heart, it beats inside
it's only three inches wide.
I have your heart, I have your heart
I have your heart.
