What, then, will it be our Ciel Ouvert to see while handling my crayon
it paints all on its own

See me - being bigger than me riding on the peak degree I'll invent the firmament a new for you

They're getting straight up to the peak
'cause daylight's short, too short for the weak They love the daylight and die with the night whole creativity depends on the light

How high, then could we fly if money sets the genius free the roof is smashed - a step ahead perfection might get thinkable

Now light my spirit beyond a roof of glass
'cause it's to me - 'cause it's to me - Smash all the ceilings and smash all the walls
'cause it's to me - Ciel Ouvert

How far, then, could we try encouraged by a clear blue sky
while handling my crayon
it paints all on its own
