Twilight on my lazing brain seeks for warmth & cools my veins floating breath in freezing throat times in black shirt, pants & coat

Nothing did change what do you think about my part what made that change on you do you think our future's through?

Harming tunes to December rain creatures that feature their actual pain graveyards crowded with souls in a loss of jolly good friend

Roll that golden sunny way on which thou ought to touch the bow feed the trees you'd never let grow leave to seek the world a new

Three trombones that'll hitchhike home blow black men's blood among the pale daylight fades out the scene too fast time for laughter jokes & loves
