Yes I leave this place behind me and with it all those summertime They'll return to me within a nightmare and reassemble with the dawn

Now I know these days behind me and as well all those bitter tastes They'll return again within a nightmare
and reassemble with the dawn

The primitives replay
they likely rage
they lose control
they lose their face
You slightly realize
the harm you've been done You conquer your size

you had before

Scapegoat ties his coat again he's expecting a lot colder times Scapegoat & scarecrow
damned for all times
and with the dawn

they leave for the coast

The primitives replay
they likely rage
They lose control
they lose their face
You slightly realize
the harm you've been done
You conquer your size
you had before
